THIS IS GENDERED is an online feminist encyclopedia. Inspired by the claim “everything is political”, we claim that everything is gendered. In A-Z order, we describe the gendered aspects of institutions, histories, technologies, designs and social practices that make up our world.

The encyclopedia is created to facilitate and normalise conversations about feminism and gender. These topics can be abstract and complex. We make them concrete, tangible and relatable. Our target audience ranges from people who are unfamiliar with (intersectional) feminism, to those with a thorough background in feminist theory and activism.

Contributions from our readership are an integral part of growing and sustaining the encyclopedia, adding a multitude of perspectives and feminist voices.

We are continuously seeking new ways to write and speak in a gender-inclusive manner, thereby contributing to the normalisation of gender-inclusive language.
